ENCOURAGING WORDS

That Same Old Argument

The New Testament makes it abundantly clear that man's salvation from sin is "through faith" (Eph. 2:8), "being justified by faith" (Rom. 5:1). Unfortunately, certain religious groups and individuals have grabbed that foundational truth and twisted it to teach that man is saved "by faith alone." That "destructive heresy" (2 Pet. 2:1) has confused many a Bible reader and has cost many souls. The reality is that the "faith only" doctrine contradicts their own doctrine and more importantly, bible doctrine!

The effort to emphasize salvation at the point of faith is simultaneously an effort to de-emphasize works as a part of salvation. A common misunderstanding of the phrase, "not by works," in Eph. 2:9 has lead some to teach that one is saved at the moment of faith, apart from any works. That is the reason that many TV evangelists claim that "thousands" were save during one of their crusades! That is not what this passage or the New Testament teaches, and interestingly, not what their own doctrine teaches.

"Faith only" advocates are usually the ones who urge people to "say the Sinner's prayer and be saved." This prayer (a practice foreign to the New Testament) typically confesses sin, asks for forgiveness, and requests Jesus into their heart. But think about this: If salvation is by faith only, why would one need to say a prayer? Isn't saying a prayer a step beyond faith so that by requiring this prayer. They themselves are affirming that salvation is not by "faith alone."

Believing in Jesus only gives one "the right to become" a child of God (John 1:12). One must act on that faith and exercise that "right" to actually become His child (John 3:3-5) The bible teaches that salvation is by faith, but not by faith alone!
